

Gizmo supports local Brisbane champion motor sport athlete Kurt Kratzmann

Brisbane, Australia, 7 February, 2008: gizmo, an Australian owned and operated company specialising in providing a support service for a wide range of technologies used in the home, today announced a partnership with local Brisbane motorsport champion Kurt Kratzmann, ahead of this weekend's WPS Bathurst 12 Hour Race.

Kratzmann will compete as part of the gizmo sponsored Wilson Brothers Racing Team in the iconic race which forms part of the Bathurst Motor Festival, being held this weekend from February 8-10.

Brisbane local Kratzmann has been a regular motorsport winner since 1990. His experience includes racing in Group A Touring cars (the highest category in Australian motorsport), the Porsche Cup, 2 Litre touring Car Series and the Saloon Car Championships.

This weekend he will be driving the team's Subaru WRX as the key driver in the gizmo sponsored Wilson Brothers Racing Team.

Brisbane born gizmo co-founder Brett Chenoweth said he believed there was an obvious synergy between gizmo and Kratzmann. "gizmo and Kurt share a common drive. Both are setting out to do Brisbane proud; Kurt will represent the area at the prestigious Bathurst Motor Festival event with our full support, while gizmo's Brisbane operation is committed to providing local residents with the best personal technology assistance."

As company director of Queensland's largest ex-government computer retailer, The Computer Market, Kratzmann takes his motor racing seriously and with extreme professionalism. He views the partnership with gizmo as the perfect extension of this.

"gizmo will play a valuable role in assisting me to represent Brisbane in the Bathurst 12 Hour Race. Like gizmo's own comprehensive and personalised service, the team can trust gizmo to provide the full support we need to be a success in the race. I look forward to racing for Brisbane!"
